

2021 Kinswoman of the Year

Aisha Noble

Aisha was born and raised in Chicago. She graduated from the University of Illinois Chicago, and has since pursued a career in marketing and sales. In her volunteerism, Aisha passionately advocates for safe, loving and inclusive communities for children. To this end, she has served as co-President on the Board of Families Together Cooperative Nursery School and as Chair of the Local School Council at Helen C. Pierce International School, Chicago. Aisha has travelled extensively throughout Scotland, saying in an interview with VisitScotland “My experience of Scotland as an African-American woman is that I have always been welcomed with open arms. I love the people, the land, the humor, the poetry and the food. The warm welcome I receive makes Scotland a natural second home for me. Diversity is an important value that’s being nurtured in Scotland. When I’m there, I am accepted, respected and loved. I feel at peace. I feel the same sense of peace when I’m at one of the Society’s events like the Highland Games. And I feel it especially when I visit Caledonia Senior Living.”

For 17 years, Aisha has been a force of goodwill and service at Caledonia. Her family – Gus, Bobby and Langston – also includes everyone who lives and works at the Scottish Home and MacLean House. Aisha shares the character of leadership and the same values of home, family and love that saw Gus through the darkest hours of lockdown. What they sacrificed and accomplished together will be enshrined in the hearts of our Society for years to come.
